Section 2: Personal Supply (Resources I Can Offer)

Category	Specific Resource	Who Can Benefit	Why It's Valuable	Access Conditions
Valuable Information	E.g., Market insights on fintech startups	Entrepreneurs, investors	Provides strategic decision-making data	Shared upon request
Improving Skills (Certified)	E.g., Expertise in project management	Junior colleagues, students	Builds their professional credentials	Pro bono for mentees, nominal fees
Job Opportunity (Referral)	E.g., Contacts in green energy firms	Job seekers, career changers	Opens access to niche opportunities	Referral-based or vetted connections
Collaboration Opportunity	E.g., Expertise in data visualization	Researchers, analysts	Improves project impact and outcomes	Collaborative projects
Mentoring and Coaching	E.g., Career advice for consulting roles	Students, aspiring consultants	Helps them navigate career paths	By appointment or scheduled calls

Analyze Approaching Point

Analyze Approaching Point的方法

- Define power dynamics
- Decide my meaningful resource supply to the connection
- Analyze our potential interactions

Define Power Dynamics

Define Power Dynamics的方法

- Understand power dynamics
 - Power dynamics refer to the ways in which power is distributed and exercised between individuals or groups during social interactions. These dynamics shape communication, decision-making, and the ability to influence or control outcomes within the interaction.
 - Power dynamics could change in different fields or scenarios
- Define the power dynamics between the connection and you according to professional achievements
- Tune your communication style according to the power dynamics

Communication Styles in Power Dynamics

Style	Typical Power Relationship	Key Characteristics	Strengths	Risks	When to Use
Dominance	Unequal power; higher authority leading	- Assertive tone - Clear and direct instructions - Controlled body language	- Provides clarity - Establishes authority - Ensures swift decisions	- May alienate others - Can stifle creativity	- When quick decisions are needed - To set boundaries or enforce rules
Submissive	Unequal power; lower authority responding	- Soft tone - Overuse of qualifiers - Passive body language	- Builds trust - Defuses tension - Demonstrates willingness to listen	- Signals lack of confidence - Can lead to being overlooked	- When gathering feedback or learning - In tense situations where de-escalation is needed
Collaborative	Equal power; shared goals	- Open and respectful tone - Inclusive language - Relaxed and engaging body language	- Fosters mutual respect - Encourages creative problem-solving - Builds relationships	- Can be time-consuming - Difficult if parties lack trust or openness	- When brainstorming - Building partnerships - Negotiating shared outcomes

Style	Typical Power Relationship	Key Characteristics	Strengths	Risks	When to Use
Persuasive	Unequal power; influencing higher authority	- Confident and enthusiastic tone - Storytelling and evidence - Open and engaging body language	- Inspires action - Builds alignment - Effective in motivating others	- Overpromising can harm credibility - May come across as manipulative	- To sell ideas or proposals - Convincing clients or stakeholders
Passive-Aggressive	Perceived lack of power	- Indirect communication - Sarcasm or subtle digs - Defensive body language	- Allows for venting frustration - Avoids direct confrontation	- Damages trust - Issues remain unresolved - Can escalate conflicts	- When unable to address conflict openly - Venting frustrations cautiously
Assertive	Balanced power; mutual respect	- Clear and respectful tone - "I" statements - Confident but non-intimidating body language	- Resolves conflicts effectively - Builds mutual respect - Increases clarity	- May come across as confrontational if tone is not measured	- During negotiations - Addressing conflicts - Requesting resources or feedback

Decide my meaningful resource supply to the connection

Decide my meaningful resource supply to the connection的方法

- Decide high-priority connection's resource demand
- Check my personal resource supply & other resource supply in my resource bank to find potential match
 - What is the resource supply specifically?
 - What is the cost to use this resource?
 - Try to use this resource from low-power-status connection
 - Exchanging resource from high-power-status connection can also function as icebreaker

Analyze Our Potential Interactions

Analyze Our Potential Interactions的方法

- Define social scenarios for interactions
- Pick the best interaction format (can be a combination)

Analyze Our Potential Interactions: Professional Scenario

Professional Scenario	Description	Purpose	Example	How to Build Bonding
Organizing Professional Events	Hosting or coordinating industry-related events or gatherings.	Positions you as a connector while fostering shared experiences.	Organizing a panel discussion, networking mixer, or workshop.	- Involve your connection in planning or speaking roles.- Highlight their expertise in invitations or during the event.
Collaborative Projects	Working together on a shared goal or task.	Demonstrates teamwork, reliability, and shared accomplishments.	Co-hosting a webinar, writing a joint report, or collaborating on a client proposal.	- Acknowledge and value their contributions.- Propose mutual learning opportunities during the collaboration.
Attending Professional Development Events	Participating in conferences, workshops, or seminars together.	Strengthens relationships through shared learning experiences.	Inviting a connection to a panel discussion, certification course, or training.	- Share takeaways and discuss how they apply to mutual interests.- Introduce them to other professionals during the event.
Referrals and Recommendations	Helping your connection secure opportunities or introductions.	Establishes trust and reciprocity.	Recommending them for a role, project, or client.	- Be proactive in identifying opportunities for them.- Follow up to see how the referral worked out.
Peer Mentoring	Offering or seeking mentorship within a professional setting.	Fosters mutual growth and showcases commitment to the relationship.	Sharing career advice or helping them navigate a challenge.	- Be supportive and approachable.- Share your experiences and learn from theirs.

Analyze Our Potential Interactions: Social Scenario

Social Scenario	Description	Purpose	Example	How to Build Bonding
Shared Hobbies or Interests	Engaging in activities both of you enjoy.	Strengthens personal connections through shared passions.	Joining them for a run, attending a cooking class, or exploring a mutual hobby.	- Suggest activities based on mutual interests.- Make the experience enjoyable and stress-free.
Celebratory Occasions	Participating in celebrations for achievements or milestones.	Shows care about their personal and professional successes.	Congratulating them on a promotion, birthday, or personal accomplishment.	- Send a thoughtful gift or message.- Attend their event or celebrate together over a meal.
Casual Meetups	Informal gatherings to catch up and share updates.	Builds rapport and strengthens understanding of their lives.	Grabbing coffee, lunch, or attending a local event.	- Focus on authentic conversations.- Show genuine interest in their personal and professional journey.
Volunteering Together	Collaborating on a charitable cause or community initiative.	Builds trust and shared values.	Participating in a fundraiser, beach clean-up, or mentoring program.	- Choose causes aligned with shared interests.- Reflect on the experience and discuss its impact.
Travel or Adventure Activities	Spending time together in a relaxed, exploratory environment.	Creates memorable experiences and fosters camaraderie.	Attending a retreat, exploring a new city, or trying an adventurous activity like hiking.	- Plan activities that both enjoy and are comfortable with.- Use the experience to deepen conversations and share stories.

Follow-up & Continuous Engagement

RM: Follow-up & Continuous Engagement

Follow-up & Continuous Engagement的目标

- Build strong impression
- Seek further connecting opportunities
- Continuous analysis of your connection

Follow-up & Continuous Engagement的结构

- Create follow-up strategy
- Build continuous engagement
- Update analysis & strategy tuning

Create Follow-up Strategy

Create Follow-up Strategy的方法

- Decide resource matching
- Decide power dynamics between the connection and you
- Decide follow-up timing, frequency, and format (professional/social scenario)

Follow-up Plan

Follow-up Steps	Timing	Frequency	Scenario	Action
Initial Follow-Up	Within 48 hours of the conference	One-time	Professional: Post-event touchpoint to solidify the connection.	Send an email thanking John for the conversation: “Hi John, it was great meeting you at [Conference Name]. I enjoyed our discussion about [Topic]. Attached is a summary of the key points we discussed about social media analytics. Let me know if you’re interested in moving forward with the webinar collaboration.”
Second Follow-Up	One week after initial follow-up	One-time	Professional: Gauge interest and maintain engagement.	Follow up via email or LinkedIn message: “Hi John, just following up on my earlier email about the webinar idea. Let me know if you’d like to schedule a quick call to discuss this further.”
Third Follow-Up	Two weeks after second follow-up	One-time	Social: Build rapport with a casual interaction.	Share relevant value: “Hi John, I came across this article on social media trends and thought of our discussion. I hope you find it insightful!”
Regular Check-In	Monthly or quarterly	Ongoing	Professional: Maintain long-term connection through periodic updates.	Send updates or share resources: “Hi John, I wanted to share some recent insights from a project I’ve been working on in social media analytics. Would love to hear your thoughts!”
Social Interaction	Within 1–2 months after initial meeting	Semi-regular (socially driven)	Social: Strengthen personal bond through informal scenarios.	Suggest a casual meetup: “Hi John, it’s been a while since we met. I’ll be in your area next week—would you like to grab coffee and chat about marketing trends?”

Build Continuous Engagement

Build Continuous Engagement的方法

- Frequent and meaningful follow-ups
- Recommended engagement procedure
 - Stage 1: Professional (50%) + Social (50%) = Trying to build personal connection
 - Stage 2: Professional (30%) + Social (70%) = Build strong personal bonding
 - Stage 3: Professional (50%) + Social (50%) = Cultivate professional values
- Organize networking events!

Update Analysis & Strategy Tuning

Update analysis & strategy tuning的方法

- Update the connection's resource bank information
- Update the analysis of the connection
- Analyze the follow-up strategy's effectiveness according to the response
- Tune the future follow-up strategy if necessary
